Father Rescues Babe From Burning Home Near Edison

EDISON, O., Feb. 3.—Barefooted and clad in nightclothes, Mrs. Alva McClenathan fled from her burning home six miles west of here about 9 last night, Mr. McClenathan carrying their 7-month-old son he had rescued after a series of dramatic events that threatened the lives of the family.

The baby, John, had been put in his crib in his bedroom at the foot of the stairs and Mr. and Mrs. McClenathan were ready to retire in their downstairs bedroom when, following a nightgown, Mrs. McClenathan went upstairs to see that an oil stove in a fruit room was burning properly.

Her screams at the sight of smoke rolling from the room brought her husband running up the stairs. He dashed into the room, which was at the head of the stairs, grabbed the stove and tried to shove it through a window. The stove was too large and as he grappled with it the three burners rolled out and the kerosene tank broke.

The stairs became a flaming path as the burners rolled down it, igniting the kerosene that had poured from the tank, and into the baby's bedroom.

Trapped upstairs and panic-stricken, Mr. McClenathan broke a window and he and his wife leaped, barefooted, into the snow. Their home had been locked for the night and to reach their baby in his room, which was aflame, Mr. McClenathan had to break the window of the front door.

PRISONER RETURNED AFTER FIVE YEARS

Gained Freedom Here on Another Man's Passport.

LeRoy J. Clark, 27, who escaped from Marion county jail more than five years ago by walking away under the guise of another prisoner due to be released, was returned today to answer a burglary charge.

He was brought here from Atlanta, Ga., by Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Miller and Sheriff Fred F. Miller. They arrived in Columbus by train at 3 a. m. and completed their journey by automobile.

Clark, who told the Marion county officials that he served time in the Georgia state prison, was sentenced on a breaking and entering charge, it was reported.

Marion county authorities were in custody of Clark following a hearing Thursday before Georgia Governor Rivers. He earned extradition papers despite objections voiced by an attorney representing the prisoner.

Clark is under indictment here to breaking and entering the Marion Lumber Co. office at 200 E. 1st street. He was arrested by police Sept. 14, 1934, who reported they found him armed and taking in the company's office. He escaped from county jail, Nov. 15, 1934.

His arraignment probably will be held before Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young early next week, it was reported.

ECONOMY WINS IN HOUSE FIGHT ON FARM BILL

Measure Provides 66 Millions Less Than Asked by President for Year.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—That nightmare of many congressmen, the fear of having to vote in this election year for new taxes or an increase in the national debt limit, helped economy advocates win house approval last night for a drastic reduction in federal farm outlays.

Without a record vote, the chamber passed an agriculture supply bill which would provide $66,928,435 less than President Roosevelt proposed for activities in behalf of the farmer during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The house reduced the measure to a total of $722,001,084, which is $319,339,231 under the total available for the current fiscal year. It retained many of the reductions made by its appropriations committee, despite the fact that the President had called the committee cuts perfectly terrible and Rep. Jones (D-Texas) had pleaded with the house to restore the restoration of a $35,000,000 loan fund to help tenants become farm owners.

BALKANS SEEK WAY TO PEACE

Look for Storm Shelter in Which To Pass Next Few Months.

By The Associated Press
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 3.—Fearful of the possibility that war may reach the Balkans by spring, the four powers of the Balkan entente sought today some makeshift storm cellar in which to pass the next few months.

The foreign ministers of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Turkey, and the premier of Greece, in conference here, already have decided that in view of conflicting interests each country must be left free to fend for itself.

This excluded any definite plan for cementing the entente into a stronger union and cost Rumania, her chance for automatic support in case of a rival demand of Germany and the British-French allies for oil become unbearable.

The conference representatives still hoped, however, to agree on some common declaration and friendly program to improve their chances of escaping any imminent upheaval.

Their difficulties are due to no lack of a desire for peace on their part, the present situation being that the nations of a region once traditionally called Europe's "indivisible" are trying desperately to escape involvement in western Europe's war.

The conferring statesmen were reported to have decided to increase their mutual economic contacts and to try to maintain economic relations with belligerent powers on a pre-war footing.

It was reported they would issue a communique emphasizing their "will" to settle all questions without force and in a friendly way.

100 FINNISH CIVILIANS DIE IN WEEK'S RAIDS

Renewed Soviet Air Attacks Take Heavy Toll; Bombs Hit Hospitals.

By The Associated Press
HELSINKI, Feb. 3.—Nearly 100 Finnish civilians were said today to have been killed in Soviet Russian air raids during the ninth week of undeclared war.

The intensified Soviet air activity with Finnish defenses held against fierce Red army attacks on the Karelian isthmus, was reported to have taken at least 11 lives in yesterday's bombings alone.

However, Finnish airmen struck back at Russian bases on the Baltic, and Finnish military sources said at least 35 Red army planes were shot down.

On the battlefield, too, the Finns said the invaders continued to suffer heavy losses at the hands of white-clad riflemen despite their use of parachute troops and tank-driven steel sledges.

Red army planes, raking western coastal cities on the gulf of Bothnia, were reported to have killed 10 persons and wounded dozens at Porv. One person also was reported killed at Rauma, about 20 miles south.

The Finns said one bomb fell squarely on a Red Cross sign atop an eight-story hospital in a suburb of Porv. Patients were said to have taken refuge in a basement shelter as a succession of 18 Russian planes pelted the site with bombs, setting fire to a nurses' dormitory nearby.

Removal of Red Cross signs had been ordered by Finnish officials, who said they served as targets, but hospital authorities were said to have awaited a decision of the international Red Cross at Geneva before complying.

Apparently aimed at Finnish railways, "flying bombs" were dropped also on Piihtamaki, south-central "crossroads" of two main lines, one of which leads westward to Porv.

Farm Bureau And Grange To Help in Finnish Campaign

Marion county granges and the Farm Bureau will carry the Finnish relief campaign into the rural sections of the county, George E. Plank, county chairman, announced today.

Robert K. Leeper, manager of the Farm Bureau, and Elmer A. Williams, grange deputy, will head the work in the rural communities.

Announcement of the midnight benefit show a week from tonight at the Palace theater, the motive benefit at the same theater on Feb. 13, and the public bridge party and style show on Feb. 18 at Hotel Harding will be made in all granges, Mr. Williams said. He will have tickets for all three affairs.

Farm people throughout the county are more than usually interested in the Finnish situation, Mr. Leeper said, and are anxious to assist in the relief campaign.

The interest stems primarily, he said, from the fact that in Finland cooperatives have been developed to the highest degree of any country in the world. There are 6,000 cooperatives in the country and approximately 20 per cent of all business of Finland is done through these agencies, as compared to one per cent in the United States.

Tickets for the benefit affair will be distributed at the Farm Bureau advisory councils, which are held regularly throughout the county, Mr. Leeper said.

WARMER WEATHER DUE NEXT WEEK

Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:
Ohio Valley and Tennessee: Precipitation about Monday and again Wednesday night or Thursday. Heavy rain temperature through the middle of week.
Central and Eastern States: Cloudy with rain; temperature moderate; wind variable.
The week-end will show some clearing and a moderate rise in temperature.

SPLIT FACED BY DEMOCRATS

'Hot Potato' Handed Donahay by Herr in Demand for Party Reorganization.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—Wary Ohio Democrats are keeping hands off a "hot potato" handed U. S. Sen. Vic Donahay in Washington by Franklin County Leader Walter F. Heer.

Heer gave the senator a memorandum yesterday calling for removal of State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach, retirement of National Committeeman Charles Sawyer and designation by Donahay of a gubernatorial candidate in case he himself should not seek the office.

Details of the fiercest reorganization plan were withheld, but Ohio Democrats in Washington assumed that the Franklin county leader suggested former State Chairman Henry G. Brunner of Mansfield to replace Limbach, with Limbach succeeding Brunner as regional director for the Home Owners Loan Corp.

Brunner, however, said emphatically that he did not want the party chairmanship.

Sawyer declined comment at his home in Cincinnati. He will confer with Senator Donahay in Washington prior to the national committee meeting there Monday.

Another Democratic leader who remained silent was former Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus, a gubernatorial candidate.

The position of fiercest mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate, was discussed somewhat here, however, because of his known unfriendly attitude toward both Limbach and Sawyer.

Limbach declared recently that he would be selected as a national convention delegate at (Turn to DEMOCRATS, Page 7)

THIRD THOUGHT FORCED DOWN IN SHIP ATTACK

Success Reported by London Against German Bombings of Vessels at Sea.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Feb. 3.—Hurtling British fighting planes today shot down at least two and perhaps three German raiders along England's northeast coast in reprisal for air attacks on shipping offshore.

The air ministry announced the downing of one plane off the mouth of the River Tyne and another off the Yorkshire coast.

It asserted that another enemy bomber engaged by the British fighters off the coast of Northumberland "was very seriously damaged" and later reports said it had crashed into the sea. Its destruction, however, was not officially confirmed.

The ministry said a ship went to the rescue of the crew of the bomber shot down off the Tyne. Accounts differed as to the fate of the German plane downed in the Yorkshire area. An air ministry communiqué reported it "shot down in the sea," but a later version by the authoritative press association said that after a German bomber had attacked a coastal vessel it was chased inland by three British fighters and crashed in flames after a battle over a Yorkshire town.

One Reported Killed
One of the crew was reported killed and three injured.

The press association said this apparently was the plane described in the communiqué as downed off the Yorkshire coast.

The air ministry gave the account of the fight off the Tyne: "A third successful interception of enemy aircraft off the east coast this morning is now reported. (Encounters with the two other German bombers had previously been reported.) A royal air force fighter command patrol shot down an enemy aircraft off the Tyne shortly before 11 a. m. A ship went to the rescue of the crew."

All the German planes were said to be Heinkel bombers.

No air raid alarm was sounded in the Yorkshire town where residents stood in the streets watching the battle between the Heinkel and three British planes.

Later a witness said he went to the scene of the crash and "saw a huge German plane with black crosses and Swastika markings lying in a field near a Moorland cottage and riddled with bullets. A military guard was mounted over the wreckage."

Today's series of raids were the third of the week. Monday the Nazis launched air attacks on shipping off a 400-mile stretch of British coast under cover of low-lying clouds.

Berlin Reports Toll
In a renewal of the raids Tuesday the British reported one German bomber shot down and another disabled. (Berlin communiqués asserted that a total of 19 ships—14 merchantmen and four British patrol boats—were destroyed in the two days raids. The British named only three vessels lost.)

The Germans were intercepted when two Nazi planes machine-gunned a trawler off the Yorkshire coast. Witnesses from a waterfront hotel said the trawler was ablaze three miles off shore. "A number of enemy aircraft approached the northeast coast this morning and have attacked shipping," an air ministry communiqué said.

Two Heinkels were engaged by our fighters, one off the Yorkshire coast and the other off the coast of Northumberland. The first was shot down in flames and the other was very seriously damaged.

The German bomber was sighted two miles at sea and chased by three British pursuit planes. It crashed in flames.

All-Season Travelers

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK—Motorists use their automobiles almost as much in winter as they do in summer, according to a new report on seasonal motoring trends. Figures on monthly gasoline consumption, compiled by J. J. Newman vice-president of the B. F. Goodrich Co., show that automobile travel is increasing 11 per cent faster in winter than in summer.

The spread of the winter vacation idyllic hard-surfacing of 85 per cent of the national highway network, and the scientific advances made in automobile and tire building during the past decade have combined to boost the average monthly winter consumption of gasoline from 44 gallons per car in 1930 to an estimated 64 gallons per car in 1940 or to within less than seven gallons of the high summer average, the report declares.

Designs for trans Atlantic service for a flying boat ordered by the French government will have three or four levels and will be driven by six 1,200-horsepower engines.

Communion with God

A SERMONETTE

By REV. D. C. SHEARER

Pastor, First Pilgrim Holiness Church

THE word communion signifies fellowship, concord, agreement. God's thought in bringing the human family into existence was that might hold communion with Himself.

He did not purpose to leave us to ourselves, for that would result in our ruin; but rather that life should control us, thus furnishing us with His life, purpose and vision.

Before the fall, God came to Adam to commune with him. This was Adam's source of instruction, wisdom and comfort.

He broke down the line of communion between the human soul and God. He thrust Adam into spiritual bankruptcy and he floundered on the rocks of the deceptiveness and unrighteousness. It desecrated his soul, awakened evil propensities, made him a slave of sin and a child in the devil's snare. His fallen nature is transferred to his posterity.

The plan of redemption is to restore man to his original inheritance and bring him back to communion with God and holiness of heart and life. It is utterly impossible for a person, in his natural state, however refined and cultured, to commune with the Creator.

When a person repents to sin, confesses his dependence, and ceases trusting in his self-righteousness, and trusts in the Savior alone, Christ sends the Holy Spirit to his heart and he is born again and given life. What a pity so many like Nicodemus are made to exclaim "How can these things be?"

When a believer discovers his privilege and consecrates himself to God and trusts in Christ for sanctification, the Savior baptizes him with the Holy Spirit and he has the more abundant life. It is the office work of the Holy Spirit to make spiritual realities real to the human soul. He inspires prayer and makes it possible for mankind to commune with the Father. What a privilege! Should we not all then be certain that the Holy Spirit abides in our hearts and we profit by the daily communion with the heavenly Father?

Pastor's Son To Aid in Prospect Church Services

Rev. Merideth Lasley, pastor of the Prospect Baptist church, will assist his father, Rev. Owen M. Lasley, pastor of the Baptist church at Prospect, in a two-week evangelistic service which will start Sunday night at the Prospect church.

Rev. Lasley has been pastor at Prospect since his father, Rev. Owen M. Lasley, died. Prior to going to Prospect he was pastor of the Mt. Moriah Baptist church near Steubenville for two years. He has studied at Wilmington college and Ohio Wesleyan university. He was ordained at the Prospect church last June.

He will be in full charge of the preaching and will direct the music for the services. His wife will have charge of children's work and each night will give an illustrated sermonette for boys and girls.

The choir of one of the Delaware colored churches will assist with the music on several evenings. Services will be held every night at 7:30, except Saturday.

The tags issued during the week were for all types of violations, Chief Marke reported, but the predominating offense was parking on the wrong side of the street.

Blood Runs Cold

YESTERDAY: Charles Whitefield, the artist who lives on the third floor, is interviewed. Dirck Wolfelt is interviewed. Dirck Wolfelt is interviewed. Dirck Wolfelt is interviewed.

CHAPTER 17
Dinner With Dirck

I DIDN'T like having to come into the murdered girl's apartment so often and I had to keep my eyes away from the dressing table.

The portfolio was propped against the wall behind the desk. Dirck laid it on the bed, untied the tapes and brought out about a dozen drawings. They were all done in charcoal, heads sketched from casts. I looked at them carefully.

"Well," I said, "in the first place, Mr. Kolff this is the work of a beginner given in art school, but it seems to me they are very well done."

The drawings had been sprayed to keep them from smudging, so the dates in the corner were legible. The last ones were beautifully done, so she had improved a lot from the time she started.

"You think she had talent?" Dirck asked eagerly.

I nodded. "Quite exceptional, I should say. Why?"

And then I knew the reason why he was so interested. Her mother had said since she had so little talent, they'd decided she should give up art school. We started each other.

"I can't see for the life of me what they would have gained by doing a thing like that," he said. "If her mother felt that the girl needed restraining it seems like a petty way of showing her authority."

I nodded. "Mrs. MacDonald didn't seem like that to me, either."

"No," Dirck said slowly, "but I could have sworn that she was frightened about something, yet that would seem impossible. After all, she is the girl's mother."

I looked at him sadly. "Dirck," I said, "your illusions are all very touching, but they don't mean a thing. Home life isn't always a cream and roses."

"You may be right," he said, but he looked annoyed. "We can't jump to conclusions."

I felt sure that he was trying to convince himself that Joan Kent's mother had nothing to do with it. "She must have been home last night," I said half to myself, "even though Richard didn't see her when he got in."

Dirck dug in his pocket for his pipe. "I talked with Richard and from all he told me, their mother wasn't particularly dominating and yet, particularly dominating."

"How did she get along with Richard?"

"Oh, fine. He said, though, that he'd been home very little. He went to Prep School and then to college for a year. And this fall he got a position with a brokerage house downtown, so he hasn't lived home for a couple of years."

He broke off abruptly. "Chris, be a good girl and wait a couple more minutes. I've got a hunch."

He dashed upstairs, so there was nothing for me to do but take my gnawing appetite back to my own apartment.

During the day I didn't mind the house, but now that it was dark I felt depressed. The room was shadowy in the candlelight and I felt uneasy. No Street was strange now and frightening.

I was glad when Dirck finally came back. He closed the door behind him and walked over to me.

"I know all," he whispered, his eyes gleaming.

"Very Well Heeded"

I was pretty well sunk and practically starving. "All about what?"

"Mrs. Evans. I ran into her while I was upstairs." His lips twitched with laughter. "Her husband, James Evans, for whom, her dog is named, departed this life eight years ago. But she keeps on loitering with him through the medium of the spirit and she has warned her several times that there would be trouble in this house."

I raised a skeptical eyebrow. "Did she really tell you all of this, Dirck Kolff, or are you making it up?"

He nodded solemnly. "I heard much more, a lot of which has slipped my mind, except that he owned a laundry and died, leaving her, as you would say, very well heeled."

I never said that in my life. And if she has money, why is she living here?"

Dirck raised his eyes to the ceiling. "The money has gone to the four winds because she didn't follow his spiritual advice about investing it."

I was annoyed. "The more I see and hear of that woman the sicker I am that she isn't quite right."

By Ann Demarest

turned to me and murmured something about making several arrests during the evening.

"Do you mind if I have dinner first?" I asked. "I didn't have any lunch."

He looked at Dirck. "You going too?"

He nodded. "Yes, Sergeant. And I'll have her back here by nine o'clock at the latest. I promise you."

He made me feel like a convict. The Sergeant said O.K. reluctantly, and the three of us went downstairs together.

"It's quite a responsibility, taking you out, Miss Howarth," Dirck said as he helped me into his yellow roadster. "Little did I dream when I showered and shaved this morning that by nightfall you'd have me embroiled in a murder."

"And little did I think," I retorted, "that after years of pure living I'd be taken for the criminal type."

"Don't be cross," he said soothingly. "You'll have your dinner soon."

"It better be soon," I said darkly. "That was the wrong thing to say, and he drove like one possessed. But it didn't last long. We were parked in front of the restaurant at one jump."

"A thick steak for two, medium rare," Dirck said to the waiter when he finally got settled at a small table.

I lighted a cigarette. The Greek man band was playing a drinking song. "This is grand," I said. "It's the first time I've felt human since I moved."

Nuisance and Nitwit

It was a wonderful dinner. For half an hour I concentrated on the steak and we didn't mention the George Street gobs-on-until we were having coffee. Then Dirck said:

"Much as it hurts my pride, Miss Howarth, the Sergeant is forcing me to conclude that I'm not only a nuisance but a nitwit."

I leaned back in the chair and looked at him critically. "Dirck," I said, "you must admit that the Sergeant, for all his faults, is a perspicacious man."

He paid no attention to me. "I'm not really trying to interfere with his investigation," he said, "and he is only letting me stay around because I know a higher-upper in the Police Department." Then he added with a grin, "If it weren't for keeping you out of jail I'd take my bow and depart."

"That's white of you, my friend," I said. "But I'm willing to bet ten dollars that you're more interested in finding the murderer than in saving me from the gallows."

He considered that seriously. "There are a couple of drawing cards," he admitted. "Red-heads have always distracted me, and I might add when the red-head has brown eyes it's fatal."

"Hip, hip, hurrah!" I swallowed hard. So he had liked Mary Ann.

"You aren't, by any chance, mocking me, are you?"

I looked up at him wide-eyed. "It's this way," I explained. "Men are so consistent it's depressing. Wave red-hair in front of their noses and they fold up like deck chairs."

But War Isn't Logical

PRESIDENT Kallio's peace offer to Russia on Feb. 1 is something historians may hesitate
over when totalling up trials accounts in the Baltic shuffle. It won't be easy to classify.

The Finns were willing to make an honorable peace before the war got under way. With an astonishing record of success in resisting invasion behind them, they still were willing to reach a negotiated settlement before Russia had rallied from the shock of failure.

While it may be that President Kallio's proposal is made with a view to averting the catastrophe of a red army eventually crushing Finland, which still is the probable outcome of the war, the fact remains it is timed to permit
Russia to escape from a dilemma. It can win its war against Finland ultimately, but at a cost that may prove fatal. A negotiated peace that would give it what it wants—control of the approach to Leningrad—without imposing on Finland what it doesn't want—invasion by the Soviet army—would seem to be logical.

Unfortunately, war itself being illogical there is little likelihood of a logical peace. President Kallio's offer will be more important to historians than it is to Joseph Stalin and his confused generals and commissars.

All-Weather Tariff

THE fixed objective of tariff reformers for at least half a century has been objective determination of rates, free from narrow business and political pressures. The evil of trusting national trade policy to local interests has been demonstrated so often it is axiomatic.

It was understood in advance that if the theory of reciprocal trade treaties ever were put into effect it would be under continuous and bitter attack by the same groups that formerly overplayed their hand in the lurid era of "log rolling." The endless struggle between executive and legislative branches for power would become a pitched battle.

That is what has happened. It is why State Secretary Hull, who has been given a chance to experiment with reciprocal treaties, is under severe attack. It is why the tariff again has become a sizzling political issue. Into this situation Sen. Vandenberg has thrown a new idea.

The New Deal reciprocal trade agreements program, he recommends, should be replaced by a six-member foreign trade board authorized to handle all matters pertaining to tariffs and commerce with other countries. Such a board would be empowered to maintain an all-weather
tariff, in contrast to an inelastic schedule of rates. It would apply the principle of economic planning to trade with other countries—a middle ground between congressional log rolling
and the reciprocal trade agreements program.
It would divorce foreign trade policy from foreign policy by taking tariff matters out of the state department.

The senator from Michigan has made his loudest bid for attention as a presidential nominee with something neither party will be able to shrug off. Log rolling was a flop; reciprocity has run into serious opposition; the time is ripe
for a substitute that will command respect from extremists in both directions.

By Way Of Explanation

THIS will be known as the year when it was so cold in January. A new milestone has been set for convenience of remember-whimmers.

It's an odd thing about weather, that it used to be worse than it seems to be now. Truth is that weather stays about the same. Figures prove it.

But odder yet is the companion notion that everything else gets worse—the younger generation, the politicians, the money changers and the blood letters in Europe. Shucks, they can't hold a candle to some of the outfalls described in the history books. Well, anyway, they're running no worse than usual. Like the weather, it all averages out about even if a fellow waits long enough.

The Well Known Ax

THIS is a short one-way trip to the end of a lumb, guided by nothing but electrical impulses sent by remote control via newspaper
wire services.

Rep. Dies of that well known committee whose name gives it the right to investigate anything and everything in America, is being kept busy dodging the well known ax that politicians
use on one another in Washington when they reach the parting of the ways. Either his opponents are going to cut his political throat, or cut their own in the attempt. There is going to be a climax of violence soon.

If the Texan's opponents win, they will drag
him around Troy; if he wins he will drag them around Troy. But the time has come for a showdown on his chairmanship of the Dies committee. Its namesake has been marked for extinction. One of the grimmest inside battles for survival witnessed since the New Deal purge
of 1938 shortly will be history.

On The Record

Congress Charged with Interfering with President Regarding Foreign Policy.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

FROM time to time during the past years of the Roosevelt administration, and most particularly during the debate over the supreme court and in the era of the "muck" legislation, we have found it fitting to protest against the encroachment of the executive branch of the government upon
the legislative and judicial powers.

It is now, I think, time to
point to another
and equally serious tendency—
the tendency of congress to encroach upon the
executive, in the exercise of its specifically
granted constitutional powers,
namely, the conduct of foreign affairs.

The conduct of foreign affairs
is not, under the Constitution, in the hands of the congress. The house of representatives is specifically excluded. The reasons for this exclusion have been set forth with logic and clarity, particularly in the seventy-fifth paper
of "The Federalist." The treaty-making power, the whole field of
relations with foreign countries,
is vested in the President, with the advice and consent of the senate, and of the senate alone.

The initiative is given to the executive.

The diplomatic agents of the United States are appointed by the President. They report to him.

In this field, the executive is intended to be strong. It is intended that he shall follow the advice of the seventy-first "Federalist" that "we can with no
propriety contend" for the complaisance of the executive "to the humors of the legislature."

It is desirable that the executive
should be in a situation to dare
to act his own opinion.

"With Advice of Senate"

And the seventy-fifth paper
says that the President should have power, "by and with the advice and consent of the senate to make treaties." It is one of the best digested and most unexceptional parts of the plan (The Constitution). The particular nature of the power... indicates a peculiar propriety. The power...
relates neither to the execution
of the subsisting laws nor to the enactment of new ones. Its advice is contracts with foreign nations, which have the force of law, but derive it from the obligations of good faith. "The qualities detailed as indispensable
in the management of foreign negotiations point out the executive
as the most fit agent." "Accurate and comprehensive knowledge of foreign politics; a steady
and systematic adherence to the same views... decision, secrecy
and dispatch are inseparable
with the genius of the house of representatives."

Now, far from sticking to the
wise and sane constitutional polity of giving the initiative to the President in the conduct of foreign affairs, with the advice and consent of the senate alone, we are actually having our foreign affairs conducted by Gallup polls

and letter-writing campaigns to congress, while partisan politics
interfere to influence our foreign policy all along the line.

This condition gives foreign countries, particularly those whose revolutionary governments aim at direct interference in our own
domestic affairs through agents
and organizations picked from amongst our own people, an unexampled opportunity to spread confusion among us. A cry goes up that "no further discretionary powers" must be granted to the executive, and the cry is used as an excuse to weaken or remove those constitutional powers which are his.

"Legislative" Foreign Policy
Actually, we are legislating our foreign policy. The neutrality act is a piece of legislation of foreign policy in advance of totally unpredictable situations, and it is a direct encroachment upon the constitutional powers of the executive.

Find the President, during the last six years, been more scrupulous not to encroach upon the prerogatives of congress and of the courts, he would be in a much better position today. But the same column that defended the judiciary and the congress upon
other occasions must today defend the executive!

The seventy-fifth "Federalist"
realized clearly that if a nation is
to maintain its power, prestige,
safety, security and rights, in the world at large, it must preserve
a "steady and systematic adherence to the same views, decision,
secrecy and dispatch."

A democratic nation can and must debate its domestic affairs
in the open, and change or modify its program and policy from day to day. Partisanship is not only every citizen's right; it is a valuable way of organizing responsibility and reflecting opinions.

The American people have control over the whole range of their domestic affairs.

But they do not and cannot
have control over the whole range
of their foreign affairs; for the very simple reason that we do not know what any other nation might do. In our relations with the rest of the world there are innumerable bargainers—ourselves, and all the other countries.

MILAN—This industrial city in northern Italy, like others, is hoping for continued peace but preparing for war.

Anti-aircraft defenses recently
were tested and "blackout" ex-

the test particularly effective by passing blue paper over windows
in addition to extinguishing lights.

Foreign Aid Problem

Whether To Lend Money to Finns, Poles Is Headache.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Not in a long time has congress
handled such a hot potato as this business of voting loans to Finland and relief to Poland.

The house foreign affairs committee holds a hearing around a whopping big table you could gallop a horse on. Representative
Fish of New York and other members bring witnesses to support a proposal for granting relief money
to Poland.

"Ten million Poles," says Fish,
"literally are starving to death."

Such relief, says Fish, who last year enjoyed the hospitality of German Foreign Minister Rüb-
ben, would not be unanticipated. "Who besides you," growls Representative Finkham of Massachusetts, through a brackie of beard, "says it is not unneutral?"

"How are we going to keep these relief supplies from falling into the hands of the Germans?"
asks Representative Johnson of Texas.

Representative Sol Bloom,
chairman of the committee, reads
a letter from Secretary of State Hull which he interprets to mean that the Red Cross has reported
no need of such legislative aid.

Cutting Relief Here

There is constant harping on the dangers involved in the business of sending money into war

territory, even for relief purposes. Momentarily the committee pauses while a blond, thin-haired student solemnly reads a report on his experiences during the bombardment of Warsaw. The people, he says, were reduced to eating horses, pigeons and dogs.
In the basement of the American embassy they didn't have even
that, he says, just boiled rice.

"Vote at least $10,000,000," pleads Dr. B. L. Smykowski of Bridgeport, Conn., district chief of a Polish-American relief organization.

Back in every member's mind
is the question of how such a vote will rest among his constituents while he is cutting off farm relief and WPA relief from his own people during the current economy drive. They are all sympathetic as blazes, but home problems, plus doubt about this business of sending money into war
areas, makes them hedge.

In the senate is even more emphatic evidence of a mincing uncertain step about loans to Finland. President Roosevelt recommends congressional authority for non-military loans to Finland. Already $10,000,000 has been advanced by the Export-Import bank but the President wants congress to say whether any

Miami Beacher

A. Frank Katzentine's Picked as Typical Native—Formerly Was Mayor, Now a Radio Mogul.

By DAMON RUNYON

A. FRANK KATZENTINE is a young, dapper, good looking and quite peppery Al-banyan, with a terrific southern accent. He was once mayor of Miami Beach, down in Dade county, Fla., and is now owner of Mar-Beach's radio station. The "A" is for Arthur.

We are bringing up the name of Frank Katzentine by way of answer to a letter from a New Jersey reader who says:
"I read a lot in the newspapers
about Miami Beach and its winter visitors but they are generally northern celebrities.
No one ever writes about the people who live there all the time. You seem to know something of that section. Can't you tell me about a typical Miami
Beacher?"

That would be Frank Katzentine—a typical Miami Beacher.
He lives all the year around
in a modest little house with a tiled roof on North Bay rd.,
one of the favorite residential sections. It is fanned by the breezes of both the ocean and Biscayne bay. He says he would not live anywhere else but Miami Beach for all the money in the world. If you ask him why he says well,
just because he likes it there.

In the winter, when Miami Beach swarms
with tourists in bathing suits and sports clothes,
Frank Katzentine wears a collar, necktie, sustained suit and sometimes a hat and works hard all day. He never thinks of going for a jog on the sands and rarely sees the races in the summer when there are few strangers around
he puts on a polo shirt, slacks and sports shoes
and dismisses toil for fishing and swimming, a routine that is typically Miami Beacher.

FRANK is a lawyer by profession and says
he will always practice law if only as a matter of diversion, though he admits his radio station, WKAT, has made his legal fees of secondary consideration, a situation most pleasing to him. It looked for a while as if that station would break him.

He knew nothing whatever of the radio business when he launched his enterprise three years ago, and the station cost him 10 times
more than he had bargained for. His friends were reflecting that he must have parted company with sanity. When he opened it Nov. 1, 1937, he was up to his ears in debt, but today
he is on velvet and owns every slick and silver
of the station, franchise, buildings, real estate
and all, and is ready to enlarge.

FRANK was born 37 years ago in Talladega,
Ala., which is about 80 miles from Birmingham. His father, an insurance man, was siderman and mayor in Talladega. The son graduated from Vanderbilt summer law school in 1924 and practiced in Birmingham and Nashville. He had two criminal cases in Nashville and lost them both. He worked for the law firm of London, Yancy and Brower in Birmingham
and in 1929 they sent him to Dade county, Fla.,
as a sort of trouble shooter on a bank case.

He liked Florida so well he remained there.
He served as pinch hitter for the prosecuting
attorney of Dade county and worked for Carl Fisher, founder of Miami Beach. He was elected mayor in 1932 after serving as municipal judge for a spell, and went out in 1934. Frank never liked the chicanery of politics. It was as mayor of Miami Beach that he introduced the idea of a "foreign legion" of peace officers from all over the country to supplement the local force.

There were only about 1,400 voters in Miami Beach when Frank went into politics. Now
there are upward of 10,000, but they no longer elect a mayor. That official is chosen by city councilmen from their own number. Frank has carefully refrained from local politics since his mayorship experience. He is, of course, a Democrat. There are only Democrats in Dade county, Fla.

In 1928, Frank married Miss Ucola Collier
of Greenwich, Conn., whose mother was from Oklahoma and gave her daughter an Indian name. Mrs. Katzentine does a bit of daily ac-toring over her husband's station, dealing in women's fashions. Frank has not approached a mike since the days when he used to make political broadcasts.

He maintains his law office in Miami, a separate municipality from Miami Beach, and represents numerous northern clients and many Cuban interests. The Katzentines have a wide acquaintance and are popular among winter visitors. When they take a month out of the hottest part of the summer for a sojourn in
New York, it amounts to a continuous leave.

But all the time he is away from Miami Beach, Frank is constantly murmuring that he wishes he were back. It is by such murmurs
that you can always spot a typical Miami
Beacher.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

One of the most remarkable marches in U. S.
military history was made by a regiment of untrained frontiersmen led by an itinerant Ohio lawyer.

After practicing law in Ohio, Kentuckian
Alexander W. Doniphan moved to Missouri in 1830. At the outbreak of the Mexican war in 1846 Doniphan recruited from "Missouri frontiersmen" a regiment of which he was made commanding colonel.

The year-long march, which began at Fort
Leavenworth and ended at Matamoros, covered 5,600 miles. The regiment remained intact despite lack of a paymaster, quartermaster, uniforms, tents or even formal military discipline.

Marked by successes, the attorney-colonel effected a treaty with the Navaho Indians, who had harassed the white settlers for years, commanded the territory of New Mexico and by conquest took Chihuahua, Mexico.

War Balloons Effective

By A. W. ROISSETTER

International News Correspondent
LONDON—Britain's famed balloon-barrage against enemy air attacks is lethal in the fullest sense of the word. It was reported here that over 40,000 men now man the balloons and their numbers are increasing as more and more balloons are sent into the heavens to protect strategic points and principal cities.

A complete barrage can be moved to a new site within 24 hours. This fact was established
when it was decided to station a balloon-barrage system on the Firth of Forth following repeated German raids on that district.

The barrage, it was explained, is not merely a deterrent because of its presence over potential targets. The mooring wires are so tough that it cannot be broken by an airplane. Any machine hitting the wire is immediately damaged sufficiently to make it crash.

One civil plane which crashed into a mooring wire had a wing sheared off as it cut by the razor. Accidents to other aircraft hitting the barrage have given the authorities an idea of what is likely to happen to low-flying enemy
raiders.

Since the inauguration of the balloon-barrage
many lessons have been learnt. The balloons,
it was discovered, are ideal lightning conductors
so experiments are taking place to make them
less vulnerable.

The National Debt Bugaboo—It's Open To Argument

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Behind
the economy headlines pouring out of congress these days lies

VETERANS TO TEST ECONOMY SENTIMENT

Request for More Liberal Benefits Before Congress.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Politically powerful veterans groups went up against economy sentiment in the house today with proposals to liberalize benefits for ex-service men and their dependents.

There was much speculation as to what reception their requests would receive in view of the fact that one of the most popular of all appropriations, that for farm purposes, was cut down substantially by the house yesterday.

Beginning hearings on proposed veterans' legislation, one of the chamber's committees invited spokesmen for the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans to submit their 1940 programs.

Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, national Legion commander, and Otis N. Brown of Greensboro, N. C., commander of the V. F. W., were among those scheduled to appear.

The Legion and the V. F. W. are asking pensions for all surviving dependents of World war veterans. Pensions already are paid the surviving dependents of veterans who had disabilities connected with their military service or whose deaths were caused by the war.

GARNER TO BATTLE FOR GEORGIA VOTE

Enters Primary Fight To Block Coup by New Deal.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Vice President Garner's efforts to head off a pre-convention coup by New Deal forces in Georgia shared attention today with an impending battle over selection of the Democratic convention city.

Leaders gathering for Monday's meeting of the national committee, which will pick a place and possibly fix the date for the presidential nominating convocation, read with interest Garner's statement that "the people" should pick the party's presidential candidate and that he desired to place his name before the Democrats of Georgia in a presidential preference primary.

Governor E. D. Rivers of Georgia, who is pro-New Deal, has suggested that the state send an uncommitted delegation to the convention. There have been indications also that the state Democratic executive committee would not call a primary but select the convention delegates itself. Under Georgia law, the committee may call a primary or not, as it sees fit. If a primary is conducted, the winner usually has the privilege of picking the convention delegates.

Senator George of Georgia, who won re-election in 1938, wrote Garner that many of his constituents had inquired whether the vice president would file as a candidate in event a primary was ordered.

HARRY E. PHILLIPS STRICKEN SUDDENLY

Former Marion Barber Dies at Home Near Delaware.

Harry E. Phillips, 80, former Marion barber, died suddenly of a heart attack last night at his home in a chair at his home five miles east of Delaware.

Mr. Phillips, a native of Delaware county, at one time operated a barber shop on the old Hotel Nordica on West Center street and on North State street. He left here about 20 years ago and for 15 years was in business in Mobile and Tuscaloosa, Ala. Limbach Under Fire
Limbach has been under fire from some Democratic quarters since announcing recently that the Ohio national convention delegation, though nominally pledged to Senator Donahue as a "favorite son," would in fact support President Roosevelt for a third term.

Donahue declared the announcement was made without his knowledge and indicated he might refuse to run as "favorite son" candidate to qualify the Ohio delegation.

Friends of Vice President John Garner, who announced he would enter the Georgia presidential preference primary, indicated he would file in the Ohio primary if Donahue passed up the "favorite son" role.

Rep. Robert F. Jones announced at Lima today he would be a candidate for reelection to congress at the Republican primary in May. He represents the Fourth district.

The Wood county Republican executive committee launched a movement last night to draft Rep. Dudley A. White for U. S. senator. White has been mentioned as a possible contender for the seat now held by Democrat Vic Donahue.

TOLEDO GAS STRIKE SETTLEMENT LIKELY

Conciliator Calls Conference of Union, Company Heads.

By The Associated Press
TOLEDO, O., Feb. 3.—Hopes rose today for settlement of the gas strike that has made more than 1,000 workers idle as a federal conciliator scheduled a joint meeting of union and company officials.

The Gas and By-products, Coke and Chemical Workers' union (C.I.O.) struck Wednesday morning to enforce demands for a signed contract, embodying a union shop, a 12 1/2 per cent wage increase and seniority clauses.

David T. Roodley of Cleveland, U. S. department of labor mediator, met with union and company officials last night.

The strike interrupted industry forcing 1,000 out of work and threatening the jobs of thousands more through the shutdown of plants. Meanwhile, additional men were placed in the West Central avenue plant that the flow of gas to commercial consumers be maintained.

The strikers are employees of the affiliated Ohio Fuel Gas and Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas companies.

City council decided there would be no further negotiations between the city and the companies on gas rates pending settlement of the strike.

Edmund Ruffin, director of the Toledo industrial peace board, prepared a digest of points on which there was substantial agreement between the union and management. He said sole bargaining rights were not an issue, but that the companies would not grant a "union shop" agreement.

JAP POLICY CRITIC RESIGNS FROM PARTY

Takao Saito Stirs Tempest by Attack on Army.

By The Associated Press
TOKYO, Feb. 3.—Takao Saito, who stirred up a political tempest by criticizing Japanese policies in China, resigned today from his political party, the Fumi Min-sei.

His resignation was offered on the advice of other Minseito leaders and promptly was accepted as the army, smarting under his advice that Japanese troops be withdrawn from China to pave the way for peace, demanded to be heard in answer in the diet.

Army leaders conferred in an emergency session and decided to send War Minister General Shunroku Hata to the chamber today to reply after the veteran legislator had asked enlightenment yesterday on the government's plans for a "new order in East Asia."

Angered army officers charged that Saito had made "open insults against the objectives of the sacred war in China."

The full text of his statement was stricken from the record, and newspapers merely referred to what were called objectionable parts but, apparently, he demanded to know what reward the people have for their sacrifices of blood and money in China.

tenants into land owners. The surplus disposal fund had been proposed to supplement an automatic appropriation of approximately $100,000,000 for the same purpose.

The major item left in the bill, which as in previous years met no opposition, was $500,000,000 for payments to farmers cooperating in crop control programs.

Farm Bills Compared

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Here is the way the agriculture appropriation passed by the house last night compares with President Roosevelt's recommendations and with the fund appropriated last year.

House Bill
Appropriates $722,001,084, including $300,000,000 for benefit payments to farmers cooperating with crop control programs, $47,500,000 for benefit payments to sugar growers and $40,000,000 for the rural electrification administration.

President's Proposal
An appropriation of $788,929,819 and congressional permission for the rural electrification administration to borrow $40,000,000 from the RFC. The appropriation to include two major items which the house eliminated—$25,000,000 for loans to help tenants become farm owners and $72,978,212 to supplement an automatic appropriation of approximately $100,000,000 for the disposal of surplus farm commodities.

Last Year
Congress appropriated $1,301,340,315 for farm expenditures.

About Mendelssohn who composed your wedding march

Whether you are married at home or at the cathedral, you will most likely hear Mendelssohn's Wedding March "Here Comes the Bride"—Everyone is expectant. And as this lovely melody leaps from the organ, all of us can't help but wish you "good luck."

Mendelssohn lived but 38 years. Considered by many one of the greatest of all composers that ever lived, he produced nearly 60 movements, including simple compositions, pianoforte sonatas, trios for violin, pianoforte and cello, and pieces for the organ, before he was 12 years old.

In his 12th year he wrote 5 symphonies for stringed instruments, songs and parts of operas. Today his name is known to more people than any other musician's because of his Wedding March.

Now, a very practical note for those to be married soon. Whether you plan to start in one room or a mansion, you'll find it easier to "Hold that budget line," if you make a daily practice of reading in this paper about the many things you will need in your new home. ## "Children of God" To Be Reviewed Tuesday Night

MRS. DEPEW HEAD of Columbus will review "Children of God" by Vardis Fisher when the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs holds its first meeting of the new year Tuesday night at Central Christian church. Completing the program will be music by a string quartet and a string ensemble from Harding High school, directed by Homer E. Huffman, instructor of instrumental music in the city schools. Members of Boy Scout Troop No. 6 will act as ushers.

The review will be the last to be given by Mrs. Head this season. The meeting will open at 7:45 o'clock with the musical part of the program. "Children of God" is a story of the great Mormon migration, and is described by critics as "fascinating and exciting, and a labor of love, growing out of man's past and home and background." The author was born in Idaho in 1865. His father was the first settler in the Snake River Valley, sent there by the Mormon church to colonize.

Two of his great-uncles on his mother's side went with Brigham Young on his first scouting trip across the plains. He was educated at the University of Utah and at the University of Chicago where he received his master's and doctor's degrees. He began collecting material for "Children of God" some 12 years ago, writing the novel between 1937 and the early part of 1939.

The string quartet will play a movement of the Haydn Quartet, and the ensemble has chosen "Londonderry Air," an old Irish tune, and "Spanish Serenade."

Thomas and twin daughters, Margaret and Martha and the celebrants, Gertrude and Gerald, and Mrs. Frank Bowman, also a niece of the hostess. A birthday cake centered the table.

Partners for euchre were found by matching valentine tally cards when the J. C. club was entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Leon Yocom of Davis street.

Mrs. M. Swisher won first honors and the floating award, and Mrs. Charles Mort won second prize. Mrs. Mattie Siminy was consoled. Lunch was served by the hostess to the members and a guest, Mrs. Hulda Yocom.

Fancy work and bride occupied members of the Needlecraft Sewing club at a meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. E. E. Manning of Cleveland avenue. Names of secret sisters were drawn. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Virginia Weist was a guest when Mrs. A. G. Unapher entertained members of the Arbor Vitae club at her home on North Main street yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Unapher conducted devotions and Mrs. Julia Young gave a reading. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. William Haley.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Has Plan to Keep Written from Replacing Gema.

THERE WAS dismay on Queen Olga's lovely face.

"But," she faltered, "I thought I had stopped all that when I gave up my foolish pride and told him that I would marry him even if I did not have a penny."

"You see," I said smilingly, "he was so impressed by what he evidently considers your divine sacrifice that he intends making it up to you. He still thinks if he restores your necklace and you think it has been found, you will again feel yourself financially independent."

"Was there ever such a knight before?" she asked rhetorically, and answered her own question with an emphatic, "Never, I do believe." Then she added plaintively: "But, Madge, we must not permit him to expend this huge amount of money. And yet, he must not suspect that I know. It is a vicious circle."

Madge's Problem, Too

"Will you let me mull it over a bit?" I asked, for a possible solution of her problem had come to me.

"Will I let you?" she repeated. "My dear Madge! Please! I am so delighted, so thankful, to have you so concerned about my problems. Where do you want to sit while you 'mull'?"

"Right here by the window," I said, and the exiled queen, who rarely had been permitted to make the slightest movement to wait upon herself or upon others, placed a chair for me with such celerity that I had no opportunity to get it for myself.

With my elbow propped upon the window sill and my chin in my cupped hands, a comfortable pose for thinking out a problem which I have copied from Lillian's invariable elbows-on-knees-chin-in-palms-position. I looked out over the gorgeous autumn garden, and began to "mull over" this most recent problem.

A Solution

"I think I have it," I said after a few minutes, and I turned my chair to face her. "But it involves an interview with Philip on your part, and a certain amount of acting, neither of which ought to be terrifying to you."

I invested the gibe with a smile, and she smiled back at me. "I am listening," she said, and I outlined the plan which had come to me.

"If you would tell Philip," I began slowly, "that you had thought of a plan whereby your lost emeralds might be recovered, and that you would like to ask his advice about it, I am sure he would give very close attention to your plan."

"I am sure he would," she replied, smiling, "and, I take it, you are ready to supply me with a plan?"

JUST THINGS

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Game

IN CASE you have a 10 acre field and a restless mob of folks to entertain you might like to game. We read about recently. But remember, we are not taking any responsibility for casualties, fights or lifetime enemies. First you have to have at least 52 people. Make or secure two sets of letters of the alphabet of a size which can be seen 60 feet distance. Split the crowd into 30 on each side, giving each a letter making an alphabet to a side. The sides stand in alphabetical order about 10 feet apart, with sides in reverse order. A opposite B, etc. A leader and judges are needed. The leader announces a word and the persons on each side must run quickly to the end of the line, one side to one end and the other side to the other, and stand so that the word is correctly spelled as they hold their letters in front of them. The side spelling the word first wins.

Twisters

AND just in case you don't care much about just sitting and twiddling your thumbs you might try the following: She sells sea shells by the sea shore; Shoes and socks shock Susan; Prickly prangly pears; A crate of crickled crabs; Crazy Crayon caught; He quit quickly; Cocks crow and crows caw; Coop up the cook; The hosts stood still. Don't try them just once, make it five.

Title

WE DON'T say that this is where Margaret Mitchell got her title for "Gone With the Wind" is an excerpt from Ernest Dowson's poem, "Non sum qualis eram bonee sub regno Cynarae." It is the first line of the third stanza. "I have forgot much Cynarae! gone with the wind." When the play "Cynara" by H. M. Harwood and R. G. Browne was produced a few years ago, another line from this poem was popular: "I have been faithful to thee, Cynara! in my fashion."

HAVE LEAD ROLES IN PALACE FEATURE

Margaret Sullivan and James Stewart, pictured above in "The Shop Around the Corner," are co-starring in the picture.

Stewart-Sullivan Picture To Open Week's Fare at Palace

"The Shop Around the Corner" To Start Sunday; "The Big Guy" Booked for Wednesday.

"The Shop Around the Corner," starring James Stewart and Margaret Sullivan, Sunday through Tuesday, "The Big Guy," starring Victor McLaglen and Jackie Cooper, on Wednesday and "Allegany Uprising," with John Wayne, on Thursday for three days make up the Palace program the coming week.

Ernst Lubitsch who directed "Ninotchka," was responsible for "The Shop Around the Corner." Besides the stars, the cast boasts Frank Morgan, Joseph Schildkraut, Felix Bressart and Sara Haden.

The story is a romantic comedy-drama woven around the everyday events in the lives of a leathery goods and novelty shop owner and his clerks. The shop is in Budapest. Miss Sullivan and Stewart are clerks who quarrel constantly until they discover the reason they quarrel is because they are in love. Morgan is the shop owner, Schildkraut is the scheming clerk who woos the wife of his boss and Bressart is a timid clerk, afraid of the boss, the butcher and the doctor.

Edna Monson, Peggy Moran, Ma Brophy and Russell Hicks support McLaglen and Cooper. McLaglen is said to give his finest performance since "The Informer" in his role of a prison warden who unexpectedly comes into possession of a fortune in stolen money. Cooper portrays an ambitious young mechanic who becomes involved in the escape of two convicts who kill an officer and leave Jackie to face trial for their crime. Miss Monson is the young woman who plays "Belle Watling" in "Gone With the Wind."

"Allegany Uprising" was made from Neil Swanson's best-seller, "The First Rebel" and deals with

MARION BOOKS MUSICAL FILM

"Rose of Washington Square" Features Songs and Trio of Stars.

"Rose of Washington Square," starring Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Al Jolson, and "Fast and Furious," starring Franchot Tone and Ann Southern, are booked on a double feature bill Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater.

All of the song hits of yesterday, the Power-Faye-Jolson film is the story of a woman who clings to "her man," no matter what he does, while a "right guy" hopelessly adores her. "Fast and Furious" is a sprightly comedy mystery in which Tone and Miss Southern, book experts and amateur sleuths, become embroiled in a case which takes them to a seaside resort and leads to all manner of complications when Tone judges a bathing beauty contest.

Edward Ellis who won plaudits for his acting in "A Man to Remember," will be back again Tuesday and Wednesday in "Main Street Lawyer," in which he has lovely Anita Louise, Robert Baldwin, Harold Huber and Beverly Roberts for support. In his latest picture Ellis plays a man who is a lawyer by calling, a fisherman by preference, and a humanitarian by choice. The story centers around the life of a small town district attorney. The same bill will offer "Dancing Co-Ed," with Lana Turner, Richard Carlson and Arlie Shav and his band.

"Blackmail," starring Edward G. Robinson and George O'Brien, action drama, "Legion of the Lawless," will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Robinson, an honest citizen who is uprooted from his family, is thrown into a prison camp for a crime he did not commit and gradually changes from a man whose strongest emotion is love for his wife to one whose only motivating desire is vengeance.

FOSTER'S LIFE STORY FILMED

Dramatic Career of Noted Song Writer Featured at Ohio.

A modern romantic comedy and a story with the spirit of the old south in its account of the life of Stephen Foster, will share the Ohio screen next week.

The modern romance, "Brother Rat and a Baby," opened a week's stay yesterday and the other film, "Swanee River," starring Don Ameche, Andrea Leeds and Al Jolson, will open next Saturday.

Romance gets away to a running start in "Brother Rat and a Baby," because the boys have already met and are well past the casual acquaintance stage. One of them, in fact, has already married the girl.

The introductions were performed in "Brother Rat," while Eddie Albert, Wayne Morris and Ronald Reagan were cadets at a southern military college. Albert married Jane Bryan, Morris and Reagan had made nice progress with Frisella Lane and Jane Wyman. The picture now showing picks up the same characters a year after the boys have graduated from college. Albert and Miss Bryan are the proud but harassed parents of an impish youngster, played by Peter B. Good, a new infant "find."

While the picture was being made Miss Wyman and Reagan announced their engagement and Miss Wyman displayed a 32-carat amethyst engagement ring.

"Swanee River" is a technicolor production based on the life of Stephen Collins Foster, foremost of this country's folksong writers. "Swanee River," "Massa's in the Cuckoo," "Old Kentucky Home" and "Old Black Joe" are only a few of the 173 songs, lyrics and melodies he turned out before his death on Jan. 13, 1864.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Feb. 4.

SUNDAY'S horoscope promises much success and gratification for all clerical, church and intellectual interests, but in other directions there is urgent need for prudence and vigilance against deception, fraud, trickery and intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some solid achievement through diligence, hard work and from past effort or accumulations during the year. But there is much need for discretion in other affairs, with particular watchfulness as to treachery, intrigue, schemes and plots, especially when affecting the signature to documents.

A child born on this day may be shrewd, clever, deep thinking but quick acting. It may jump into dangerous and doubtful enterprises through schemes, sharp practice or subterfuge, although it may be suspicious and over-critical.

For Monday, Feb. 5.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a memorable and surprising development in the affairs that may be considered radical or reactionary. The mind will be quickened into strange, perhaps unique paths, demanding a complete about-face from old and effete views, philosophies and systems.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year in which there may be a complete change in their lives—mentally, physically and in associations, plans and endeavors.

A child born on this day may have extraordinary talents which may be born of new and even spectacular ideas which, when applied to business methods, scientific research, invention, travel or aeronautics, may be deemed revolutionary.

BLACK LOCUST TREE HAS EVIL ADVERSARY

Must Grow Rapidly To Conquer Borer.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — "In one corner we have black locust, a tree with many fine qualities; a legume and good soil-improver, a wood that is second only to hedge in lasting qualities in contact with the soil, a rapid grower, and a rank root growth that heals gashes quickly," said T. E. Shaw, Purdue university extension forester, in a recent lecture demonstration.

"In the opposite corner we have the tree's natural enemy the locust borer, an insect which bores holes in the trunk of the tree, and which is capable of causing serious damage in black locust plantations.

"The winning or losing factor in the fight is the tree's growth rate," explains Shaw. "If it is slow, the borer wins; if it is rapid, the tree wins."

Foresters have found that the tree has a much better chance if it is planted on soils to which it is adapted; that it is only suited to well-drained sites; and that it is helped by site preparation, fertilization at the time of planting, and by mulching when planted on less favorable sites.

"This information is important," states Shaw, "because black locust is a valuable species for reforestation work. It can be grown to post timber size in from 15 to 20 years, and it has produced excellent returns on a 15 to 20 year rotation."

Milk Consumption by Finns Seen As Source of Power

COLUMBUS, O. — Vindicated! Prof. R. B. Stoltz, dairy technology department, Ohio State university, reads the war dispatches from the Finn-Russo fronts with considerable satisfaction these days.

For years he has pointed out that the Finns, who consume 33.9 gallons of whole milk per capita per year, the greatest average for all people, have excelled in distance running and in paying their debts. The professor claimed this proved the dietary importance of large quantities of milk.

However, the claim lost some of its persuasiveness when hecklers would say, "Yes, the greatest runners, but which way do they run?" It took a war to prove that the Finns not only run the best but they run in the right direction.

Professor Stoltz now says if the Germans and Russians have any qualified army staff, those generally better study the national milk drinking statistics before they provoke Norway and Sweden any further. These two nations stand second and third, just below Finland in the consumption of whole milk and lead in eating cheese.

Professor Stoltz advances the theory that the kinds of food boys eat before they join the army has more importance than what they get from the commissary while fighting.

FARM BUREAU TO BEGIN CAMPAIGN

35 Workers to Start Drive for Members Monday.

The 1940 membership campaign of the Marion County Farm Bureau will be launched Monday, Roland K. Leeper, manager, announced today following a meeting of 35 campaign workers Thursday at the Farm Bureau office.

The membership workers will cover their own townships and will assist in the canvassing of neighboring townships, Mr. Leeper announced.

R. J. Elliott, head of the organization department of the Ohio Farm Bureau, talked to the group on membership and state legislation.

He said there is grave danger of reapportioning of representation in the Ohio legislature, a move which he termed "detrimental" to rural counties, and said there is a tendency to place higher taxes on real estate.

Mr. Leeper spoke to the group on the Farm Bureau's part in the county's Finnish relief drive. Details of the campaign will be announced later.

Experiments May Provide New Crop Yields for Islanders of Lake Erie

SANDUSKY, O. — The "islanders" who live on the cluster of islands off shore in Lake Erie, have had a difficult time making a living in recent years but experiments made by a Toledo industrialist may some day give them new life.

Hubert D. Bennett, president of the Toledo Scale Co., owns one of the islands in the group—Rattlesnake Island. He's lived on it quite a number of years and has grown to like the "islanders."

He noticed that many of them were leaving because there was not much to do. Farming and grape-raising both were dwindling. Bennett thought he might be able to do something to keep the people from leaving the places where they had lived for several generations.

The results of his efforts are in a little plot of ground, fenced off to protect it from the pheasants, rabbits and other game which roam over Rattlesnake Island in large numbers.

Teas Lavender Bennett has grown lavender plants on his island. He did a little research work and discovered that almost $1,000,000 worth of lavender is imported from France annually.

On a trip abroad a few years ago he traveled in France and stopped in the rocky, hilly sections where lavender is grown. It was, he decided, very similar to the soil and climate on the Lake Erie islands.

On his return he started to grow a small plot of lavender. It matured and apparently was hardy. This year he was to have checked the yield and quality of the crop but other matters forced him to drop it for the time being.

"All that I have done so far is to prove that I would grow and to work out a machine that would harvest it," he said. "Just what the economics of the crop would be I have not yet determined."

A similar experimenter is Harry H. Straus, of Brevard, N. C., who became interested in the manufacture of cigarette paper in France.

He decided that the paper could be manufactured in the United States and he began to experiment with different kinds of flax. The result was a blend of flax fibers from Minnesota and California which produced a paper said to be superior to the imported types. Today his plant employs 700 persons and is operating at full capacity.

Uses for Flax Flax may become a new crop for Ohio. For some time farmers here and there have grown the crop principally for feed. But industry is now exploiting the flax plant. Its principal use industrially has been for linseed oil and for use in the making of paints and varnishes. But it is now used for linoleum and printers ink. The meal which is left after the oil is extracted makes good livestock feed.

"We can grow good crops of flax in Ohio but the difficulty is keeping weeks under control and getting the crop harvested in decent weather," said L. E. Thatcher, of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, who has done extensive experimental work with flax. He said flax probably would never become of great importance in Ohio until industrial plants can provide a good local market for farmers.

Ohio Ranks As Pioneer in Farm Accounting Idea

COLUMBUS, O. — Frank H. Wortman of Cecil declares that his experience with keeping accounts on an Ohio farm daily since Dec. 1, 1938, has convinced him that an accurate record of the business is one of the best means of making farming profitable.

Mr. Wortman was 15 years ahead of the extension service in advocating the importance of keeping daily records of income, cash paid out, livestock production, and crop yields. However, the Paulding county farmer now transfers the figures from his ledgers into the extension service account book when he summarizes his accounts for the year.

The records kept by Mr. Wortman have caused two important changes in his farm management. Several years ago low returns from his dairy cows induced him to sell the cows and begin building up a poultry flock that has grown to more than 1,000 laying hens. More recently, this farmer gave up trying to make a profit from hogs and started an apy which now has 50 colonies of bees.

County Agricultural Agent D. C. Foster says this set of farm records is a graphic history of the ups and downs of agriculture. Yearly income figures range from $3,422 in 1930 down to $10.72 in 1921, which was the closest the Wortman farm ever came to going into the red.

Crop yields have been held at level on the farm over the 40-year period. Soil erosion has balanced the effects of fertilizers, better crop varieties, and better tillage methods. Mr. Wortman thinks most Ohio farmers do not realize how rapidly their crop yields decline if they have no records to show the gradual decrease.

The Paulding county farm bookkeeper estimates the records take three minutes of time daily and some extra hours at the end of the year, a total of 38 hours a year. By knowing the actual production of his poultry flock, he has been able to boost the average egg laying from 140 eggs per bird in 1920 to 201 eggs in 1939.

There are 240 acres in the Wortman farm, with 178 adapted to crop production. Present production requires the labor of two men, three horses, and a tractor. Cash crops produced in 1939 were corn, wheat, and soybeans. The farm owner thinks three minutes a day invested in record keeping is a trifle when compared with its importance in permitting a constant check on his business.

VALUE OF LIMING SHOWN BY TESTS

Results Achieved Through Surface Application.

The improvement in the nutritive value of grasses by liming, to say nothing of their better yields, is sufficient to suggest liming grasslands by surface applications, says W. A. Albrecht, of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Experimental results have shown the need for lime or calcium by many soils if they are to grow grass effectively. Liming the grasslands or lawns deals with soils usually not plowed, and consequently raises the question whether limestone can be applied on the surface of these soils with effectiveness.

Experimental results now give an affirmative answer to this question from two sources; that of reason, and that of data. In the first place, liming may be doing two things at the same time, namely modifying the degree of acidity and supplying calcium as a plant nutrient. It can't do the first without doing the second. It can, however, do the second significantly without doing the first.

Applications of limestone on the surface of grass soils have shown by their penetration an effect in terms of changes in the degree of acidity with time. Data of this type are accumulating. The penetration effect to modify the degree of acidity is greater as the soils are more sandy. The rate of downward movement is not one to be measured in months, but in years. One reason for the slowness, by which limestone on the surface makes changes in the lower soil depths, is the fact that our surface soils have been so depleted of calcium that they can take up enormous amounts in even this shallow layer before any surplus remains to move downward.

Our grasslands and lawns are in need of calcium, or lime, more for the nutrient value than for the effects on the soil acidity. Because of these conditions, an application of limestone can be made on the soil surface for crop benefits even if it can't be mixed into the soil to modify its acid disposition. Liming can be helpful as a surface application, as shown by response of the yield of grasses in terms of limestone service as a plant nutrient. Liming of grasslands need not be neglected because the stone is not mixed into the soil.

YIELD OF HYBRID CORN TAKES LEAD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. — Hybrid corn outyielded open-pollinated varieties nine bushels per acre in 10 years of Ohio tests, Prof. R. D. Lewis of the Ohio State university agronomy department reported.

He warned farmers, however, that some hybrids were unsuitable for certain localities and, he said, county agricultural agents were prepared to advise corn raisers in their own communities as to what varieties to plant.

Isn't it a fact—

that an average cow will produce about 170 pounds of butter fat in a year, while a champion may exceed 500 pounds? If a cow doesn't produce enough, she soon ceases to be a cow, and becomes roast beef.

And isn't it a fact that when you go to all the trouble of erecting a house or farm buildings, that it will pay to use good plans, good workmanship and good lumber, so that as years go by you will still have good buildings?

Beauford Glover of Mansfield, George George of Lorain, and Billy Smallwood of Akron also won titles. Glover defeated Tony Lanes in the 125-pound division and Smallwood won the 135-pounder over Ernie Westman of Cleveland in the flyweight section. Other winners were Allen Auger, heavyweight; Joe Haxlin, 147; John Lawler, 147, and Sam Harnes, 118. All are from Cleveland. James Bloom of Cleveland defeated Vincent Haines of Akron in the final of the 135-pound non-title class.

Beauford Glover, Mansfield winner in the Cleveland title tournament, fought before Mar- tians when he won the light- weight title in the 1939 Golden Gloves meet here. He grabbed the local crown with a second- round technical knock over Dan Matthews of Marion.

Meeting Called To Plan Vocational Guidance for Marion Young People

Plans for a broad program of vocational guidance for boys and girls in the city and county will be discussed at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday night called by E. N. Hile, secretary of the Y and member of the Rotary club vocational guidance committee, and Mark L. McKelrick, psychological consultant on the Central Junior High school faculty. The meeting was called as the result of a meeting of civic leaders held last spring at which representatives of several organizations discussed the need for a vocational guidance program here, Mr. Hile said. Both Mr. Hile and Mr. McKelrick were members of the group.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN GLENDENING, M. D.

Pneumonia
PNEUMONIA is under very good control today. This is due to the researches of the past few years. Two methods of treatment have been proved to be effective in pneumonia. One is the use of vaccines for the different strains; the other is the use of a drug, sulfa pyridine. There is no reason why both methods of treatment can not be carried out. Pneumonia is caused by a germ, the pneumococcus, which has many varieties. The proper serum must be selected to fit the exact variety which the patient has. This is now done rapidly by methods of typing known in all laboratories. Type III pneumococcus is resistant to any serum, but yields to sulfa pyridine. All these procedures can be left in the hands of the attending physician.

Know Early Signs.
What is important for the patient to know is that during this kind of weather, a sudden pain in the side, with or without a chill, with a feeling of great pressure and oppression in the chest, accompanied by fever, probably marks the onset of pneumonia. At least, the symptoms call for a consultation with your family doctor. Since early treatment leads to the best results, and since the doctor has effective early treatment, everyone should stay on the conservative side and call for medical consultation when even a suspicion exists.

Influenza, the other great dangerous respiratory disease, is like the common cold, probably a virus disease. The virus has been cultivated in ferrets. Influenza tends to visit the world in cycles of about 30 or 35 years apart, with a severe

Championships Clinched in Next to Final Round of Loop Contests.

Claridon High school's cage combine last night won the 1940 Marion county league basketball championship. Coach A. B. Augenstein's wrecking crew, with Bobby Sims running the hoop for 25 points, handed Prospect a 44-33 lacing for the tenth straight victory. The win, along with the 30-28 defeat, suffered by the defending title-winner, Pleasant Township, in a visit to Waldo, handed Claridon the crown.

Claridon and Pleasant meet next week on the latter's court in a season-ending game, but the outcome will have no bearing on the championship since the Augenstein-coached quintet now holds a two-game lead. Win or lose in the final encounter, Claridon will retain its grip on the league banner.

In other boys' contests last night Caledonia moved into a second place tie with a 30-16 victory over Kirkpatrick. Martel edged Meeker, 25-23, to get out of the cellar and Morral got a 27-20 decision at LaRue. The latter game ended in a near controversy, the ruling of Referee Tachan of Upper Sandusky giving Morral the nod.

Kirkpatrick sewed up the girls' championship by coping the ninth consecutive loop win at Caledonia, 21-11. Although Morral, second-place club, has lost but one contest, a tie duel keeps the northern entry from being within shooting distance of a title. Should Kirkpatrick lose the final game next week at Martel, the leaders still would boast a record better than Morral's by at least the margin of the tied contest on the latter's slate.

Waldo walked over Pleasant, 26-18, Morral bested LaRue, 25-19 and Prospect edged Claridon, 27-26. In other feminine games, Reserve contest saw Martel stop Grand Prairie's winning streak, 21-12, while Pleasant plastered Waldo, 18-8.

Bettina Wallops Apostoli

By JUDSON BAILEY
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—They all stay too long in the fight game. Fred Apostoli, the San Francisco bellhop who once was considered the best boxer in the world, found for himself a most know it today as he dies on a cot at Polytechnic hospital across the street from Madison Square Garden.

He was a rugged, confident gladiator, former middleweight champion, when he climbed into the ring last night for a 15-round duel with Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y. Around the ringside, folks whispered he looked in the best condition of his meteoric four-year career.

When the going clanged on the twelfth round, he was a shambles, staggering, unable to find his corner. The bout couldn't have gone further. Referee Arthur Donovan, Manager Larry White and the crowd of 12,000 all made up their minds at the same time. And White also decided Apostoli wouldn't go any further on any other date.

But for Bettina, the southpaw slugger who held the lightweight championship briefly between the reins of John Henry Lewis and Billy Conn, it was a different story.

Welching 175 pounds, two and a quarter more than his foe, Bettina pegged himself better than ever before and incomparably better than last month when this same Apostoli took a disputed decision from him in this same ring. He dominated nine of the 12 rounds and belted his foe into a helpless, pitiful pulp.
